1 - The meeting.

The meeting:

dammit, move! a somewhat short girl with reddish hair and bright red eyes yelled as she shoved the students in her class to the side. A boy, who was considered cute, groaned and prayed he wouldn't be on a team with her. The boy sat on the table next to two other boys. At the back of the room, sat another boy. He was quiet, but strong. Everyone was scared of the power he had in him. Everyone except the boy who was considered cute, and the demon of a girl. Those 3 were fearless.

Alright, everyone, settle down. The teacher had said to the class. oh, and Gavin, get off the table. He glanced at Gavin. Gavin had blushed and sat in the closest chair. The girl had been blushing herself as she watched Gavin sit down.

Dude, I think that Amy is staring at you! One of Gavin's friends had whispered to him.

Shh! Gavin turned away from him.

Alright, now time for team setup. Team one will be, Hana, Ash, and Masaya.

The tree cheered and they had been friends forever. The teacher had assembled the other teams and had gotten to the last 9 students. Next, team 14, Gavin, Amy, and Takeshi.

Gavin and Amy gasped. No, not psycho girl! Gavin had said quietly and put his sweatshirt hood over his head. YES! I GOT THE 2 CUTEST BOYS IN THE WHOLE CLASS! Amy had thought. Takeshi had walked over to Gavin when class was done. Don't goof off, or I'll have to kill you. Takeshi said and walked away. Gavin had sat in his seat and thought about how things would work out with his team. Either Amy would kill him for not saying the right thing or Takeshi would slice him in half for no apparent reason. His idol was a grade above him. His idol was the famous, Sasuke Uchiha. They were alike in so many ways.

2 - headaches

Ugh&. Gavin had grabbed his head in pain. He lay in bed with the covers over his head. I really DON T want to see them. Why does it have to be them! Whatever&I guess it can t be that bad. Gavin pushed the covers off and showered. He got dressed in his new shirt and new ninja shorts. He didn t bother brushing his hair. He just left his house afterwards. All Gavin wanted to do was be on a team with Kaj. Kaj was a good friend to him. He didn t understand why he liked Hinata though. Gavin thought Hinata was annoying. Whatever, its Kaj s decision. Another thing Gavin wanted to do was to get away from home. He hated his mother. He didn t even know his father and he s an only child. He walked until he saw Amy s bright red hair, and piercing eyes. Gavin shivered when he saw her. There was no sign of Takeshi. Everyone thought he ended up on the classes above them. But as soon as someone said something, he was behind Gavin. They all waited for their teachers. Eventually, team 14 s showed up. His name was Daisuke. He didn t have a last name. Gavin was excited his sensei was decent. And he could actually talk to him without the thought of being killed. Gavin walked over to Kaj. Kaj was talking about becoming the greatest ninja in the world. Gavin and him made a promise to each other that they would push each other to the top.

3 - bonding?

Light from the fire had flickered and gave Gavin a scary horror-movie look to his face as he lay on the ground. He and Amy were told to stay at camp while Takeshi and Daisuke-Sensei went to get medical supplies and food in town. Amy brushed her hair and occasionally glanced at Gavin. She blushed as she did so. Then she sighed. I'll never have him. All the girls like him. He's perfect; His hair, his eyes, his body, his intelligence, his sincerity(sp?). Or, he could be gay. We never heard about him liking a girl. Well, Kaj hasn't spilled it. She thought to herself.

Why is your hair so red? Is it dyed? Gavin asked Amy to break the awkwardness.

Nope. It's natural in my family. Red hair and red eyes. Amy said softly.

Maybe she's really not that bad&

Do you mind if I ask you something? Gavin looked towards her.

Uh&sure she blushed.

Why are you&always dogy? Gavin stared at her.

Well I'm sick of the attitudes. People just like to stare and cause drama. So what if I'm not 100 pounds and 5 foot 8 inches. Or, so what if I'm not pretty enough. I'm sick of it all. That's why. And I'm sorry if I was mean to you or pushed you. She looked away.

That makes sense. And it's all right. I understand now. He closed his eyes.

It became silent between the two. He opened one eye and looked at the girl who was setting up her sleeping bag.

Gavin blushed and said; Amy, you're really pretty&.when you're not a monster. He then giggled. She had blushed too.

Thanks& she was pretty much speechless. I CANT BELIEVE IT. The boy who never liked a girl, said I was pretty! She lay in her sleeping bag and closed her eyes. She couldn't get the thought of Gavin out of her head.

Gavin stared at the sky. Hoping to wish upon a shooting star. He looked at all the constellations. He recognized a lot of them. When he was younger, his older brother used to tell him stories about the sky. But when Gavin was 10, the sand village siblings had killed his brother. He wanted revenge on them. But what could he do? He was a useless 13-year-old boy. Who had just started as a ninja. Gaara was the graduating class above him. Temari had to be at least 2 years older. Same for Kankuro. Maybe he could meet Sasuke Uchiha and ask him to kill Gaara. No, probably not. When would he ever run into Sasuke. Or even Naruto for that matter. He once again looked at the pictures made by those silver-gray stars. He grew tired waiting for the third teammate and Sensei. His eyes grew heavy and he had soon fallen asleep.

4 - First night out...

AH! Gavin screamed. He looked at his sensei and teammates. They didn't wake up. Gavin got up and realized there was a backpack next to him. Oh, I forgot to bring my stuff yesterday & stupid me. They must've ran into mom. He said to himself quietly. He stood up. He had heard something in the bushes and went to go find out what it was. He walked around the forest with a flashlight. Something wet had dropped onto his hand. It was blood, But, from where? He touched his cheek. His cheek was bleeding. He turned around. What's going on? The flashlight's batteries died. He didn't see anything anyway and walked back. Something's there. I know it. He said, and fell back asleep.

A blonde boy was behind a tree. He had hid from Gavin. The blonde was trying to make a trap. He wanted to see if a real ninja could figure out it was there. Obviously, Gavin didn't. But, Gavin was still new at that. The blonde boy was a little older than Gavin. He walked into their camp. He looked at Amy. Hmm. reminds me of Sakura. He giggled and walked off.

Gavin slept in late that day. He woke up to the scent of food. Takeshi glared at him. Gavin looked at Takeshi and asked; if you're such a great ninja, then why'd you waste your time going to the academy? Gavin said going to sit up on a rock, in his boxers and a t-shirt. Amy blushed.

Why would you care anyway? Well, cause that's my start. When I become stronger, wouldn't that look good for the academy? He said to Gavin. Gavin just stared at him.

Daisuke-sensei, when are we going to start training? Gavin tried to change the subject.

Maybe tonight. I haven't made many plans to train you three yet. I need to a little more planning. But we definitely will tomorrow. He smiled after he said that.

Well, I'm going to bathe in the lake. See ya! Gavin said as he got off the rock and headed toward the lake.

Aren't you hungry? Daisuke-sensei yelled.

Nope. Gavin yelled back.

As he got to the lake, he took his clothes off. He jumped in and made sure no one was around. Amy looked at his backpack and realized he forgot it.

Um sensei, I'll be right back. She picked up his backpack and brought it to the lake. Gavin poked his head up from underwater.

He saw Amy standing there watching him and blushing. He stood up. But the water was up to his ribs.

Amy, something wrong? He asked.

N-no, you j-just forgot your c-clothes she dropped the backpack.

Thank you. He smiled.
