This story is about Inuyasha Taisho, the greatest dancer ever! But then he loses his partner Kikyo, also his girlfriend, and he gives up dancing. Will Kagome, a low class dancer be abl to convince him to be her partner, so that she can win her dance competition? I don't know. You find out! Sounds' gay, but humor me, and read it anyway.

This was it. The final dance. This was the dance that would really matter. Inuyasha took a deep breath. He was the worlds best dancer, male dancer that is, and was currently finishing a dance with his partner, and girlfriend, Kikyo Shikon. Inuyasha had long, black hair that he refused to cut, so it went down to about his midback. He had gorgeous violet eyes, and was relatively tall. He was very stubborn, but Kikyo loved him anyway's. She had long black hair, stunning brown eye's, and a heart shaped face, with a cute nose that was slightly upturned. They were finishing the final dance of the evening, the one that would take the gold medal in the United States Dance contest. They did all styles of dance, but had gone with a more jazzy dance for this one. It was called, Dance with me one last time. Currently, they were spinning, and getting ready for the final move. Kikyo leaned back as Inuyasha caught her, she closed her eye's, put her hand to her head and lifted her leg to Inuyasha's shoulder. The crowd applauded, and they bowed. The judge walked up to the middle of the stage, contestans were lined up all around him. "And the winner is . . ." He started. "Inuyasha and Kikyo!" The crowd went wild, and so did the dancer's. Except for one. Kouga Ookami. But he's not important right now. Kikyo laughed and clapped happily as they got their trophy. This was the bst day of her life.

Soon, the cheering stopped, and everyone went home, including the happy couple. (I need to stop. I hate Kikyo and I'm gonna barf soon.) As they walked out of the building, Inuyasha whispered to her, "I have a present for you!" Kikyo squeeled. "I love presents!" She said happily. "Give it to me!"

"Not until we get to my house." He firmly said. "Fine." She replied. Kikyo pressed the button on the crosswalk, and as soon as the light turned green, they started across. They were half way there, when Kikyo dropped her purse, and all it's contents spilled everywhere. "Oops." She said. "I'll get it baby, you go ahead." She said. Inuyasha shrugged, but crossed the street. He turned around, and smiled at her. She was so beautifull, and, well, perfect. In his eye's. (Yuck.) But that was all gonna change. She was done, and was standing up, when Inuyasha saw headlights from a distance. He looked at Kikyo and waved her over. She stood up, and then . . .

"I'm sorry Mr. Taisho. We've done all we could. She didn't make it."

After that night, after he left the hospital feeling empty, he put away the ring forever, that was supposed to go on her finger.

Kagome sighed angrily. Why couldn't she find a partner? Kagome was twenty three, she had black hair, brown eye's, and a full body. She was beautifull. But if she was so beautifull, why couldn't she find a partner! "ARGH!" She screamed. Hojo was a dud. Miroku was a pervert. Kouga was . . . just plain weird. And Bankotsu couldn't dance to save his life. She needed a partner, and she needed one fast. Then, she remembered. Three years ago, dancing legend, Inuyasha Taisho, had lost his partner in a fatal accident. He hadn't stepped foot on a dance floor since, but maybe she could convince him. Yeah right. Many greater than her had tried. Kagome sighed defeated. There was nothing she could do. All hope was lost. Currently, she was sitting in a waiting room, waiting for her friend, Sango, to get off work. She was a secretary in a dentists office. "AHHHHHHHHHHHHH!!!" Kagome yelled. All eye's turned to her. Kagome sweatdropped. "Um . . . sorry." She said. She sighed. Again. For what, like, the fifth time? "I hate my life." She mumbled under her breath. "You and me both." Someone said who was sitting next to her. "I have to get my wisdom teeth pulled." The stranger said. She looked over. It was . . . him. That black hair, those violet eye's, it was, Inuyasha. Kagome gasped. Your Inuyasha!" She said. He looked at her. "Yeah, unfortunately." He replied, staring angrily at the cursed door that he would walk through with teeth, and leave, without. Ooh. Scary. "Mr. Taisho, please listen to me." She said. He looked over at her. "What have I been doing all this time?" He said. She nodded. Spotlight went on her. She put on a puppy dog face. "Please sir, ever since I lost my dancing partner, noone has been good enough to dance with me. So I thought-" "No." He interuppted. "But, please!" She cried to him. He looked at her, with a serious face. "I won't dance. Don't ask me." He said. Just then, Sango, called, "Mr. Taisho, The dentist is ready to see you. Inuyasha growled, but walked through the cursed door. Kagome sighed. But she was also determined. Inuyasha would be her partner, even if it took all month. No, that wouldn't work, the contest was in a month! Okay then, even if it took her from one to three week's!

2 - Drive me home, I'll call you later

Inuyasha growled. That had hurt. A lot. He walked back through the cursed door, and was about to go when he saw that same girl waiting for him. Kagome smiled. She had told Sango to go home without her. "Hi Mr. Taisho!!" She shouted walking over to him. He groaned. Grabbing his coat off of the rack, he ran out of the building. Kagome frowned, but ran after him. "Wait!" She shouted. He stopped. And whipped around to face her. "Look." He snapped. "I already said that I wouldnt dance with you." She just kept on smiling and said, "I know! But I need a ride home." He glanced at his car. He could jump in and drive away . . . but that puppy dog face was just way too hard to resist! "Alright." He said gruffly. "Get in." She squealed and jumped into his convertible.

As she sat down her eyes grew big. `I cant believe that I am actually in Inuyasha Taishos car! He got in and locked the door. She just kind of stared at him. He stole a glance at her nervously. "What!" He asked her. "Sorry!" She stuttered. "Its just that, your, like my idol! And your driving me home!" He blushed. Aww. Hes h er idol. He put the keys into the ignition and started to drive. It wasnt until they had been in the car for ten minutes before he said, "Oh! Dangit! I dont know where you live!"

After she got dropped off Kagome skipped into her house. "Im so happy!" She said. "He drove me home! And - and - and . . ." She frowned. "Dang." She muttered. "He still wont dance with me. She ran into her bedroom and got out the phonebook. She found INUYASHA TAISHO, and dialed the number.

Inuyasha threw the keys on the couch. He had gotten home late because he had had to drive that girl home. What was her name again? Aw, it didnt matter anyways. Hed probably never here from her again. Just as he was thinking that, the phone rang.

Inuyasha went over and picked up the phone. "Hello?" He said. "Um, Mr. Taisho?" A shy voice answered. He rolled his eyes. It was that girl again.

"Uh huh." He said.

"Its me, Kagome, but you probably already knew that . . ." He made a mental note. `So Kagome was her name huh?

"I was wondering if ..." He waited for her to continue impatiently. "Youwoulddancewithmeatthefinals?" Her words were all jumbled together, she had said them very fast.

"What?"

"Um, I said, would you please dance with me in the finals?" He sighed and sat down in his favorite big green fluffy chair. He figured if he was gonna refuse her, he should at least hear her sob story.

"Go on." He asked her. Over the phone, he could hear her yell a triumphant, `yes! because he was listening to her. Soon though, she came back to the phone.

"Well, sir," She said. He interrupted.

"Call me Inuyasha. Im not old you know." He could feel her blush through the phone. (Can you imagine that? That would be kinda creepy actually ...)

"Okay." She continued. "Inuyasha, I am the greatest pupil at my art school, arts for the entertainers soul. Or, the AES school." She paused to take a breath. "My partner was Hojo Akitoki, but he was very, very clumsy. So, I uh, kinda, dumped him." Inuyasha smirked. He liked this girl already. "But he understood!" She said in a hurry, not to sound too mean. "He now has this other partner, I think her name is Yumi, anyways, then I had a partner named Kouga," At this, Inuyasha growled. Kagome looked at the phone strangely. "Uh, are you okay?" She said.

"Yeah, yeah, fine. Continue."

"Alright, we did great for a while, but then he got really possessive, and started calling me his woman." Inuyasha almost growled again, but stopped himself. "So I got rid of him, and now the semi finals to my dance competition are in three weeks, and I dont have a partner!" Inuyasha considered this, he seriously did. And after some serious thought, he came to a conclusion.

"Alright Kagome." He said.

"Alright what?" She asked hopefully.

"Nope."

~At Kagomes house~

beeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeep. Kagome heard the dial tone, and looked at the phone in disbelief. He had hung up on her! She slammed down the phone. She was going to have Inuyasha as a partner, if her name wasnt Gerdel McFinkelberg! ... And it wasnt.
