Chapter 3 - ~Finding The Truth~	7

1 - ~Meeting You Again~

When it was a sunny day outside, there was a girl named Natalie Jones who was outside with her family. But then a giant vampire came and the three vampires took away Natalie's family. Then the big vampire changed in human form. It was Dracula. Then he said, "Hello, Natasha. It has been a long time now. And I came here to kill you so you won't stand in my way." She stood still and he continued, "You just won't talk to me, will you? But I will see how well you've been training yourself."

"So be it." She replied furiously.

Then he grabbed her by her shirt threw her into the pool and smiled as she fell in.

"W-why is he accusing me of his death. It's not like I told Van Helsing to kill him in the first place. I- I'm sorry, Count. But it was for your own good. I thought you were my friend." she said, in her mind. Then her eyes glowed white and came up with water all around, her attacked him, and he fell off the pool and onto the ground. And Natalie landed on the ground and smiled. And so was Dracula. Natalie became confused. He got up and looked behind her. She turned around and what she saw was Van Helsing in werewolf form on top of the roof of her house. Dracula smiled at her and implored, "Look familiar?" Her eyes were full of tears. Then, with a cracked-up voice, she said in a whisper, "Van Helsing." Van Helsing landed on the ground, ran towards Natalie and attacked her, which Dracula dogged his attack and landed on top of the tree which was right next to the pool.

"Please, Van Helsing, you have to stop this. This-...this isn't you." Natalie pleaded.

Van Helsing saw a tear coming down from her cheek and thought, "N-Natasha...?"

"Please, Van Helsing, please stop this." She pleaded once more.

Then, he let her go. Dracula became furious, changed in his vampire form, and attacked Van Helsing. But, before Dracula attacked him, Van Helsing pushed Natalie out of the way so she could not get hurt even worse. During the fight, she saw Van Helsing get hurt. She thought, "I don't have to worry. Van Helsing killed him twice, he can kill him again. I have complete faith in him. Always."

But then Dracula grabbed Van Helsing throat and made Chidori, which it hurt him very badly.

"No." She whispered in sadness.

"You were strong once, Gabriel, it looks like you are not strong now." Dracula smiled.

As soon as Natalie was furious, she made Snow Star (her dragon spirit) awoke and attacked Dracula which it made him back into his human form. When he hit onto the wooden fence and tried to slide up, Natalie put her seventh assigned father's sword and vowed to him, "I killed you once, Count, I can kill you again!!" She sheathed the sword. Once Dracula got up, he said in pain while holding his arm, "I will deal with you later, Natasha.” He laughed mirthlessly as a smirk formed on his face. Then he turned back into his vampire form and flew off, leaving Natalie furious.

2 - ~The Masquerade Ball~

Van Helsing, soon, came with her to save her family. Natalie and Van Helsing, soon, got into the masquerade ball to get Tina (who was now in Dracula's trance).

"How does it feel to be a puppet on my string?" Dracula asked Tina.

"I won't let you trade me, Count." The fully-hypnotized Tina replied

"I have no intention of trading you. And if I know your sister, Natalie, which I do... she is not planning on making a trade, either. Neither of us has ever settled for half." He responded her statement.

After Van Helsing got Tina, they could not break the trance that was on her. Dracula called, "Natasha. Oh, Natasha. Oh, Natasha. Welcome to my Summer Palace." Natalie got furious until she heard a familiar voice that distracted her.

"Master, Master! Look, Master, look!"

"We have him, Master. We have him!"

Then, everyone took their attention on her older brother (from 1st assigned family), Yami, struggling to break free and then he yelled, "Why you wretched undead! I shall have my revenge! Though I walk through the valley of the shadows of death, I shall fear no evil!! You are nothing but dead bones and damn souls and you will burn to the flames of Hell!!!!!"

"Now that everything is...--" His sentence was cut short when Natalie yelled on the top of her lungs, "SIN!!!! YOU ARE ALL SIN!!!! YOU WILL BURN TO THE PAINFULL, EVERLASTING, FIERY HELL WHERE YOUR CORPS WILL BE NOTHING BUT BITTER ASHES!!!!!"

This seemed to amuse Dracula as a smile formed on his face.

"Now that everything is... as it should be, ladies and gentlemen, I give to you... Natasha Frankenstein!!!!!" Dracula roared.

Soon they both discovered that all of Dracula's guests were vampires, but Natalie had other thoughts on her mind; she was full of rage of what Dracula had done. Van Helsing grabbed Natalie's arm and said, "Come on." but she pulled it away from his grip.

"I have unfinished business to attend to." She said, not looking at him.

Van Helsing was confused. "But--"

His sentence was cut short when she said, "Don't worry, I'll be right behind you. Just take my sister out of here. I know what I'm doing, Van Helsing. You can trust me."

"Yes!!!" Dracula roared.

"Alright. I'm counting on you, Natasha." Van Helsing said to her.

As soon as both Van Helsing and Tina were out of earshot, Natalie yelled, "Liana... chi!!!!!"

All of the vampires were turn into dust. All except Dracula, who let out a smirk.

“What are you laughing about, Count?” she retorted as soon as she saw the malicious smirk of his.

“I was just remembering about your parents’ death. Sixth seventh and tenth assigned. And you were so naive enough to actually think you can reclaim your family name. And respect from the village, and most of all, killing me. Honestly, Natasha, do you really think that would actually happen?”

“I killed you once, Count, I can kill you again! And you did what to my family?!”

He saw the expression on her face; he smiled, and said, “Killed your tenth assigned family. How simpler do I have to say it?” The tears ran down her cheeks and he continued, “It wasn’t hard for me to kill them, really. But I decided to let your sister live. The rest of your family was nothing but a nuisance to me.” Natalie jumped down and said as she ran toward him, “You filthy son of a dog!!!”

As soon as she was near him, he grasped her neck, pulled her up, and said, “They proved useless. But I’m hoping, with vampire venom now running through your sister’s veins...she will be of greater benefit!”

Soon, he grabbed her left arm, twisted it back, and soon she screamed in agonizing pain. She screamed once again because of his brutal strength was causing her so much pain from her arm. Once, Dracula let go of Natalie’s arm, she fell down on her hands and knees, he smiled and laughed from her pain. However, she gave him an evil smirk, making his fade once she set her gaze upon him, and soon there was a smoke full of clouds, making her disappear. “A shadow clone?!” he thought. Then he heard a twirling sound coming from behind him; it was Natalie twirling her staff!

He grabbed her staff and said, “I just about had enough of your childish games, Natasha.” With one swift movement, he took the staff away from her and kicked her in the stomach as hard as he could. Then Natalie became in pain, fell on her knees, and coughed up blood. Soon, Dracula laughed at her while she was in pain. “Why are you doing to us, Count?” she implored to him as she was in tears. She stormed her head up and continued, “What is it that made you like this?!”

“Why do you keep calling me by that name?!”

He kneeled to her level and smiled once he lifted her head up with his left hand by the back of her jaw to face him, “Because it’s your old name from the past. And I intend to call you by that name and that name only. Nothing else.”

Suddenly, once he let her go, he walked towards her, put a strain of her hair behind her ear, and whispered in her ear, “How about I settle a little negotiation for you. I’ll turn your sister back into a human if you give me your pendent. I’ll let you think about it, Natasha.”

Then he walked away, leaving Natalie furious as she began to get up.

“How do I know that what you say is true, Count?” she implored as she was still trying to breathe through the pain.

He laughed, turned around, and responded, "I may not look like it, but I'm a man of my word." Then he turned back around. As soon as he turned back around, he stopped in mid-step when he heard Natalie say, "My sister."

"What was that?" He implored without looking at her.

"I choose my sister."

"Well, well, Natasha, I knew you couldn't resist." He smiled.

"I'm doing this for my sister, Count." She retorted.

He turned around, walked towards her, held out his hand, and said, "Now the pendent if you don't mind."

She took off her pendent and, before she put it in Dracula's hands, she said, "What about my sister?"

"Why are you concerned about her life?"

"Because, she only family I have left. And I will not lose anyone else!"

3 - ~Finding The Truth~

Both of them got out of the ballroom. As for Natalie, she was upset. She met up with Tina and Van Helsing, who smiled, ran toward her, and embraced her.

“Natasha, I’m so glad your okay.” Van Helsing exclaimed.

Once he pulled her away, he saw sadness that was shown on her face, having his smile fade.

“Natasha, what is it? What’s wrong?”

Then he saw her pendent missing from around her neck.

“You didn’t! Natasha, don’t you realize what you’ve done?!”

“It not like I had a choice, Van Helsing!”

He grabbed her by her arm and showed her the bite marks on her neck.

“I don’t get it, he said that he’ll turn my sister back into a--”

“No.” he interrupted.

She looked at Van Helsing and Tina opened her vampire eyes at Natalie. “Natasha!” he cried.

He grabbed onto her and she used earth bending around Tina’s feet, enabling her to attack.

“What did I tell you? Your sister is a vampire!!”

Natalie put her hand over her mouth and cried. Van Helsing held onto her to calm her down.

“I got to turn her back.” She said as recovered of her sorrow and began to walk to the vampire that she used to call her sister.

Pulling her away from Tina, he siezed her arm, “No, she’s a vampire and she’s going to kill people.”

“She can’t help it! It’s not her fault!”

“I know!! But she’s going to do it anyway!!”

“You don’t get it do you?! She’s the only family that I have left. I just can’t let her become a vampire forever!”

Just as she pulled away from his grip, he grabbed both of her arms and retorted,

“There’s nothing else you can do for her now, Natasha, nothing!”

Tears come running down her cheeks as she looked into the eyes of once who had been at her sister, whom snarled and growled as she was fidgeting to break free, she even tried to transformed to her vampire form to break free, yet the attempt failed time after time. Natalie looked back at Van Helsing with tears-stained eyes and implored, “What else am I suppose to do? Have her remain a vampire forever?”

His sentence was cut short when she yelled at the top of her lungs, “Vampire or not, she's still my sister!!!!!!" She held her head down as tears formed in her eyes, held Van Helsing's arm, fell on her knees taking him with her, wept on him, and wailed as she looked back at him, "She is my blood, she is my family, but most of all, she is my sister!"-Van Helsing looks at Natalie's sister-"I can't neglect her because of what she is! If she's dead, then I would have no one left, Van Helsing." He looked back at Natalie from her last words, astonished, and said, "You are not alone, Natasha." He lifts her head up higher with both of his hands on both sides of her jaw line to see her face clearly; her face was red and soaked in sweat, mucous, and tears, and he continued, "You have to understand that."
